sinclair
ZX Spectrum
ADVENTURE D:
ESPIONAGE ISLAND
SOFTWARE BY DIMPLITIN
48K RAM

sinclair
ZX Spectrum
G17/S
48K RAM
ESPIONAGE ISLAND LOAD" "CODE

ADVENTURE O ESPIONAGE ISLAND

Adventures are games in wh ch you explore strange new worlds w thout leav ng the comfort of your home.
The Computer will act as your puppet and control your senses. You nstruct the computer w th short phrases usually Verb Noun. If the computer does not understand then try to re phrase the command. When enter ng your command you may use the DELETE key to erase any letters. In each location you may f nd objects which you can men pulate and use n further loca ons to help your progress. The game is written in machine code. The program is stored w th the name ADVENT but a s mpler to load by LOAD "" CODE command.
In Adventure O you have been sent on a reconnerssance m ssion to observe an enemy stand. Somewhere hidden on the stand is a secret. Your m ssion is to observe the stand. Unfortunately one of your engines is hit by enemy fire and you are forced to abandon your plane. Your adventure begins n the aeroplane and leads to the heart of the enemy stronghold. You must then return to your a rcraft carr er but bewere your s de may be fooled by your d sgu se. As this adventure s very large the progr m also has cassette routines with which you can load and save a game at any stage to return to at a later date. To save the game you QUIT the game. The computer then asks if you want to save the game. If you reply Y the computer will display the READY CASSETTE. Now start your cassette player on RECORD and h t any key. The game takes 2 seconds to save. To play a previously stored game. When you run the program you are asked if you wish to restore a prev ously stored game. If you answer Y the computer again displays READY CASSETTE. You then cue up your tape press play on your cassette and h t any key. The game will then continue from where you last left it.

GOOD LUCK

© 1982 ARTIC COMPUTING

sinclair
ZX Spectrum

ADVENT

ESPIONAGE ISLAND

You have to survive an engine failure whilst flying over an apparently uninhabited island in the South Atlantic. Your single weapon

GT//S